(54) Title: SUBMERGED CURRENT INDICATOR

(57) Abstract: An apparatus (10) adapted to indicate the direction of water current at a pre-determined depth of water, including a floating device (20) and a weighted sail member (24) connected (26) thereto. The floating device (20) acting as a visual indicator at the surface to users as to the direction of water current at the depth of the weighted sail member (24), the sail member (24) being of a weight and configuration to drag the floating device (20) without submerging it. A fisherman commencing a berley trail (18) at a particular depth of water can use the apparatus (10) to determine which direction to cast bait.
